It is that time of year again when we ask our membership to renew their annual dues. Which leads to the question, what value do I get by being a member?

1. Networking With Your Peers: Need some guidance on a new product, have questions about smoking, curing, or packaging? Maybe you are having questions or issues with your inspection process? These are just a couple of topics that being a member of IAMP gives you access to.
2. Annual Convention: Where else can you come together with all the leading industry suppliers to ask questions, purchase equipment, or "kick the tires" all in one location. In addition, during the annual conference you can attend seminars or breakout sessions on topics that directly relate to your business to help you make more money or improve your process. (priceless!)
3. Plant Tours: From time to time IAMP will setup plant or industry related tours for the membership. What a great way to find new ideas or products!
4. Product Showcase: You will have the opportunity to enter your products at the Annual Convention and the State fair each year to see how you compare to others. It is more than a competition, it is a way to gain more knowledge and ideas from others around the state to enhance your products or processes.

As most you know my family is new to industry, joining the IAMP organization was one of the first things we did so we could ask questions, visit others, and learn from Industry experts. I encourage you to renew your membership and invite those that have not joined to do so as well.

Cheers!

Mike Love, President

The Convention is packed with great educational sessions, plant tours, and a cured meat show. The TRADE SHOW will be fantastic. Watch the next IAMP newsletter for all the details.
